Re: MB Docket 10-56

Dear Chairman and Commissioners:

We wish to express our support to the Comcast-NBC Universal joint venture. We believe that this transaction will result in added opportunities for companies such as ours and other minority enterprises that are trying to grow their media businesses.

Castalia Communications Corporation is a small, minority-owned company based in Atlanta, Georgia. We have been in the television distribution, sales and marketing business for over fifteen years, and have developed relationships with dozens of the largest television companies worldwide.

For the past eight years, we have had a long and productive relationship with Comcast. Most recently, in association with Comcast, we launched several channels directed to the Mexican-American community, such as Mi Cine, Canal Once, Canal 22 and Mexicanal, both as linear and VOD channels, offering unique and diverse programs to this target community. In this process, Comcast has been a fair business partner and has been highly supportive of our initiatives.

Comcast has been instrumental in the development of Hispanic television in the United States. We firmly believe that the proposed joint venture will produce even more opportunities for companies like ours and for multi-ethnic communities to receive better and richer services.

I will be very happy to respond to any inquiries you may have on this matter.

Sincerely,

Luis Torres-Bohl
President
